

THE GENDER LENS - EVALUATION IN AFRICA THROUGH THE EYES OF AFRICAN WOMEN EVALUATORS.

What does evaluation through a gender lens look like?

What is the role of African women evaluators in this?

Who are these women?

Where and how do their journeys intersect with gender dimensions of development and evaluation?

Join us in our upcoming webinar where two African women evaluators will tackle these questions and share from their own evaluation journeys. This webinar is part of a series of engagements aimed at unpacking the gendered-dimensions of monitoring and evaluation - in keeping with our celebration of Women's Month. The webinar will give us a glimpse into how mid-career African women evaluators embrace opportunities and challenges they face in contributing to improving lives through evaluation, in real life.
